

Example of the article format

Topical sections

(see The List of scientific specialties)

UDK 111.111

Results of the study of transition zones

Alexander B. Knies^{1,2}, Ute I. Pinturier², Jochen P. Gutt³

¹*Institute... , City, Country*

²*University... , City, Country*

³*Institute... , City, Country*

Abstract. 200–300 words. The abstract should give an insight into the purpose of the research, its scientific novelty, and obtained results without reading the whole article.

Keywords: (no more than 10, phrases of two words are acceptable)

Acknowledgements and information on funding of the study (provide the information on grants, projects, scholarships, etc.).

IMRAD article structure:

Introduction

Methods

Results and Discussion

Findings and Conclusions

In text:

Fig. 1. Figure caption

Table 1. Title

Notes.

References (see Manuscripts' formatting and publication guidelines PDF/WORD)

About the Authors

Knies, Alexander B., PhD (Geology and Mineralogy), Leader of the Laboratory of..., Institute ..., City, Country; Associate Professor at the Department of ..., University, City, Country, knab@https://orcid.org/XXXX-XXXX-XXXX-XXXX

Pinturier, Ute I., Doctor of Physics and Mathematics, Head of the Department of..., University, City, Country, univers-p@https://orcid.org/XXXX-XXXX-XXXX-XXXX

Gutt, Jochen P., Postgraduate Student, Engineer, the Laboratory of ..., Institute, City, Country, geoecdp@https://orcid.org/XXXX-XXXX-XXXX-XXXX

Submitting the paper to the Editorial Office, make sure of the obligatory information in the article and required files.

Manuscript material include the following files:

- Text of the article with inserted illustrations and tables in MS Word format of any version without using macros (duplicate the in PDF format). Full information for all authors is given in the end of an article;
- Files with illustrations;
- Additional material to an article (if desired and necessary) to be posted in electronic version or as a separate publication.

Scanned copies of the following covering documents are attached to a manuscript:

- The Author's Agreement (can be downloaded on the Journal website);
- Permission to publish separate materials, if necessary (see the file On the permissions to use the third-party material on the Journal website);
- List of potential peer-reviewers (if desired): 4–6 specialists (at least from two different regions or countries; experts in the given field).